General Comment (short cover)

Following a major restructuring of the company, I decided to leave the company and change my career.

It's time for me to share my experience and meet new challenges.

As corporate, a large part of my carrier is dedicate to guide and help the country's top management to increase profitability and reach the world class level in all majors process indicators.

Driving safety prevention policy is an opportunity for a company to develop the involvement of its staff. It is not only about being in good standing with the laws and regulations but also and above all about developing individual and collective responsibility.

By putting in place a coherent policy, it becomes possible to improve the staffing of staff and thus improve the safety and productivity indicators.

A process of changing attitudes is good for both the staff and the company.

Meet new people, sharing enthusiasm and help them manage their business in an increasingly competitive Environment would be, for me a real target. I'm willing to travel as required by interesting missions.

Better than a resume, I invite you to visit my internet site (in French). You will see my best practices and mainly my enthusiasm to lead the change to a better future.
